Board will ask voters for money to remove asbestos

By ALISON ALOISIO

SAD44 voters will likely go to the polls Feb. 29 to decide whether or not to fund the removal of asbestos from the Telstar complex this summer.

The amount taxpayers would contribute could range from $84,000 to $142,000.

Exactly how much they'll be asked for depends in part on how school directors decide to allocate a $57,442 check they recently received — as SAD44's share of a nationwide asbestos lawsuit settlement.

Asbestos is a mineral fiber used in the past to strengthen materials and provide fire resistance and heat insulation. If the fibers are disturbed and become airborne, they may be inhaled and remain in the lungs for long periods of time. Damage to the lungs can range from scarring to cancer.

The Telstar complex has dents and holes in its ceiling tiles from 30 years of building use. The ceiling tiles, along with floor tiles and in-

Nature fades brightly toward the dark days of winter

Deer Hill Bog, in the nearby White Mountain National Forest, displays the autumnal stage of nature's cycle of decay and regeneration. This weekend may be the last for seeing the leaves here at their peak. A map of an Evans Notch foliage tour that includes Deer Hill Bog can be found on page 9 of this week's Citizen. Will View abutter accuses planners of trying to 'sneak around' intent of voters

But Appeals Board upholds subdivision's approval

By ALISON ALOISIO

"The town voted it in. We have to accept what the town voted in. But I'd like the public and the town to know how this whole thing was handled. That is my big objective. That's why I'm here."

Sonny Cummings came before the Bethel Board of Appeals last week and, in effect, put the integrity of the Bethel Planning Board on trial.

Cummings was there to appeal the board's Aug. 18 approval of the Will View subdivision on the Sunday River Road. Cummings, an abutter, had expressed concern about drainage from the 22-lot development impacting his property.

But the argument Cummings brought Thursday went beyond water worries. The planners, he said, granted a waiver for Will View's private road after townspeople had denied them that power.

Bethel voters voted in June to deny a request from the Planning Board that it be given the power to grant private road waivers.

But they also voted to approve another proposed ordinance revision that gave planners waiver power on issues relating to subdivisions.

The private road ordinance was thoroughly discussed at the Town Meeting before being rejected. But the proposed subdivision amendment simply changed wording that allowed the Planning Board to grant a "variance." Because the Planning Board cannot grant variances, the wording was changed to "waiver." The change was not explained to voters, however. It passed without challenge.

The Planning Board then used the subdivision power to grant a waiver for a private road in Will View.

Several people involved in the issue said later they believed voters at Town Meeting did not realize what they were voting on with regard to the subdivision revision. And that was the basis for Cummings' appeal.

"Certainly, the intent of the town ordinance is not to provide a way to 'sneak' around the regulations of another ordinance. The process that the Planning Board used (amend

Bethel PD to clamp down on morning rushers

By ALISON ALOISIO

Don't say you haven't been warned.

Bethel police officers have been writing a lot more speeding tickets lately. And they plan to keep at it, in an effort to get morning commuters to slow down.

"We've had a lot of people calling in and complaining about people speeding by their houses. There have been a lot of complaints on all the in-town roads," said Police Chief Darren Tripp. "We're writing a lot of summonses, but we're still getting a lot of calls."

The main offenders, he said, are people going to work and teenagers driving to school.

Foes say four-lane E-W highway here still possible

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Recent developments regarding a proposed east-west highway through Maine have proven a mixed bag for local opponents of the plan.

Late last month an economic analysis, released jointly by the Maine Department of Transportation and the State Planning Office, concluded such an investment by the state would have only minimal positive economic impact.

That conclusion seemed to take some steam out of support for the plan, but the report also concluded that of the five alternative routes under consideration, the one that would produce the most bang for the buck (in terms of the cost of each job it created) was the route running along Route 2 through Bethel.

And a week after the report was released, Gov. Angus King told the annual meeting of the Maine Chamber and Business Alliance that the state should commit to a major upgrade of its east-west transportation infrastructure.

In the past King has been cool to the idea of a four-lane, limited-access highway across the state -- and that is the prospect feared most by highway opponents, who argue that it would destroy the character of communities along the route.

And the governor's proposal last week to the business leaders also stopped far short of endorsing such a plan.

The MDOT/SPO report estimated the price of a full-scale interstate level highway at up to $1.2 billion.

King's proposal, by contrast, called for spending a more modest

ASC concludes poor year

By MICHAEL DANIELS/AP

American Skiing Company last week posted a $22.5 million net loss for the fourth quarter, ending what Les Otten, chairman and chief executive officer, termed a challenging year marred by abnormally warm weather.

During the same period last year, the Newry-based ski holding company lost $19.7 million.

The loss exceeded the expectations of some analysts. By late morning on the day of the announcement, ASC's stock was down 1/16 to 3 7/8 per share on the New York Stock Exchange.

On Wednesday morning of this week, the stock was trading at 3 15/16.

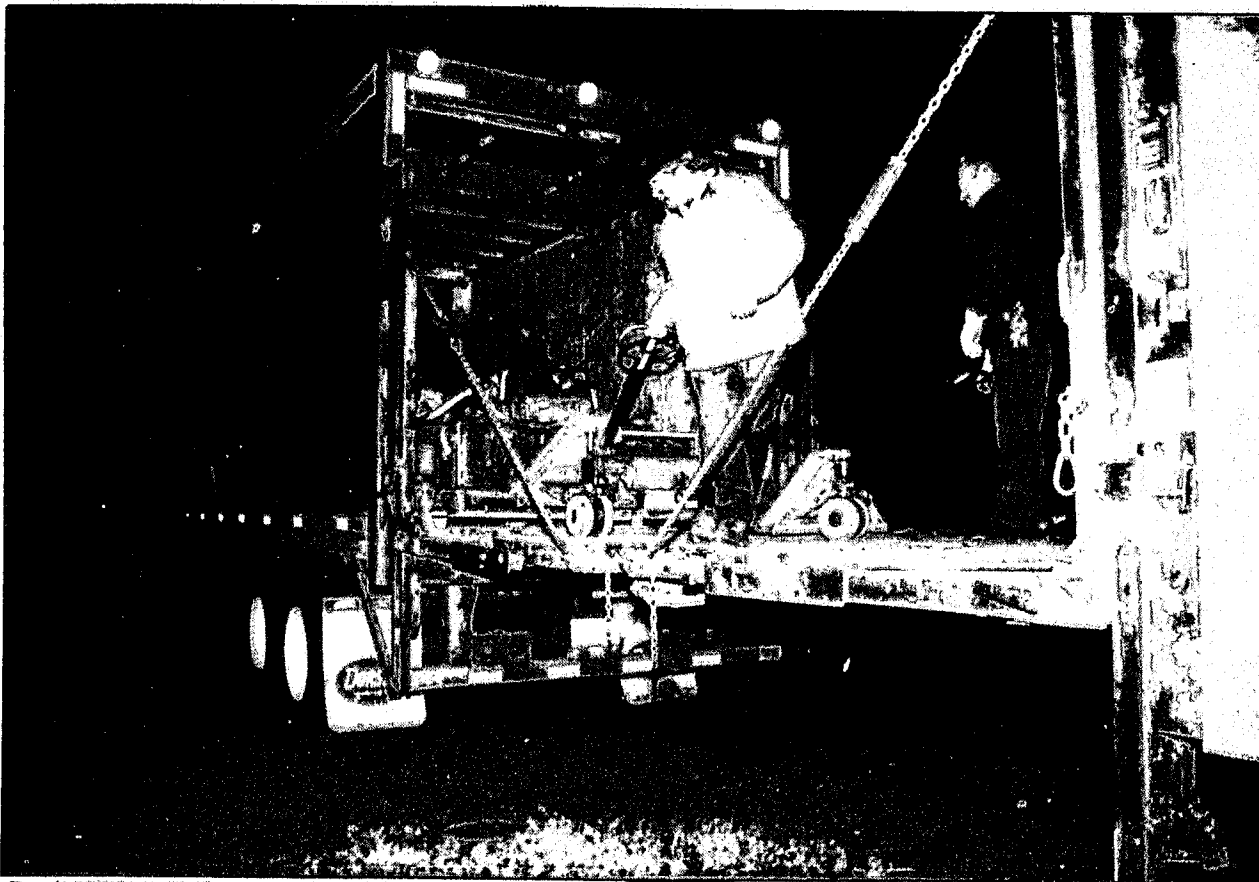

Revenue for the most recent quarter totaled $18.1 million in the fourth quarter of 1998, when the company booked an additional $8 million in real estate revenue.

For the fiscal year, American Skiing lost $32.3 million, or $1.07 per share, on revenues of $317.1 million, compared with a loss of $342.2 million for fiscal 1998.

The results for fiscal 1998 were reported on an adjusted pro forma basis, which assumed that the company's initial public offering and the acquisition of the Steamboat and Heavenly resorts occurred at the beginning of that year, rather than in November 1997.

"Fiscal 1999 was clearly a challenging year for the company," said Otten. "The effects of abnormally warm and inconsistent weather conditions throughout much of the 1998-1999 winter season, coupled with our aggressive capital-expenditure plans, required an additional investment in the company to maintain our growth

THINGS THAT MOVE IN THE DARK
Anyone traveling through Bethel between 9 and 10 p.m. on a weekday evening has probably seen the two NAPA Auto Parts trucks parked at the Norway Savings Bank. The drivers, Steve Hodge (right) of Groveton, N.H., and Brian Doyle of Falmouth trade auto parts before heading out for their overnight deliveries. Doyle brings auto parts from NAPA's Westbrook warehouse for Hodge, who delivers them to stores in northern New Hampshire and Vermont, as well as Kelley's Auto Parts in Bethel. After the nightly rendezvous, Doyle heads out with his remaining goods to make deliveries in western Maine. Hodge has been at it for three years, Doyle only since March. Last winter, Hodge followed the progress of Angus, the World's Tallest Snowman. "I watched Old Angus from start to finish," said Hodge. Danny Kennagh of Bethel is another part of the truckers' routine, bringing them coffee each night. (Photo by Alison Aloisio)

WHAT WE CAN DO ABOUT TOBACCO

To the Editor:

The 20th Century is almost over, and truth is finally out — tobacco, used as directed, kills. Over 400,000 Americans die as a result of tobacco use each year.

Why should that make a difference to us, as residents of the SAD44 area? Because today, three of every nine kids in our five towns run the risk of starting to smoke, becoming addicted to nicotine, ending up with a chronic illness and dying early, and needlessly, from a tobacco-related illness. This can be prevented if we all get involved.

What can we do? For starters, take one hour of our time to learn first-hand how the tobacco industry has used advertising to lure and entice kids to start smoking, and to learn what we can do here, in SAD44, to intervene.

When and where can we go in the Bethel area to get information? Well, thanks to the efforts of the students and guidance directors from Telstar, Dirigo and Mountain Valley who plan the annual FACT workshop; the Telstar Middle School administration and Friends of Telstar Middle School; and the generosity of the Bethel Inn and Country Club, Bethel Rotary and Books 'n Things of Bethel, anyone who is interested can participate next week in a local presentation and discussion of these issues with a nationally known speaker.

On Tuesday, Oct. 19, we can talk with Dave Goerlitz, former Winston Man, when he presents to the Friends of Telstar Middle School at 7 p.m. in the Telstar library. Mr. Goerlitz will talk about his work as a model for the tobacco industry in the 1980s, and his real job: getting 3,000 young people to start smoking every day. His presentation will reveal the truth behind tobacco industry advertising techniques aimed at our kids and what we can do, to intervene, and undo this influence.

What else can we do?

Speak up. When anyone sees a juvenile trying to buy cigarettes, they can remind the clerk to ask the buyer for an ID so she/he does not sell cigarettes (or any other deadly tobacco products including cigars or chew) to our kids. Remind store clerks and store owners that those who sell tobacco products to juveniles (kids under age 18) can be fined, or can lose their license to sell tobacco. Also, be aware that what happens most often, however (and we read about it in newspaper police logs and court news), is that the kids who are caught in possession of tobacco — sold to them by adults — get fined $100.

What else can we do? Support efforts to provide first-time youth offenders (and their parents) a chance to participate in alternative programs called "smokeless juveniles programs." These programs are an alternative to the fines for kids, and provide them with information and motivation to stop using tobacco products. Demand and support community, court system, law enforcement and school system cooperation to set up smokeless juvenile programs for our kids. In your business or organization identify quality community service opportunities for youth, and make them available to youth, through the court system, as an additional alternative to the $100 fine.

What else can we do? Support the efforts of school administration and teachers who are trying to set a positive, smoke-free environment for our kids. Leave tobacco at home whenever we go to any school. Do not use tobacco products on any school's property, at any time. Support the Chemical Health Program at SAD44.

Remember to join us on Tuesday night.

BUSHPILOT RESULTS AND THANKS

To the Editor:

The strong drove on and the weak fell by the wayside. The rains stopped, the clouds parted, but the wind still blew like a banshee. Regardless, the true bushpilots of the Northeast started arriving in Bethel on Oct. 9 to commence the first annual New England Bushpilots Competition. The competition consisted of two short field take-offs, two short field landings, and a simulated cargo drop, using flour balls, from an altitude of 200 feet AGL. Some aircraft arrived, circled the field, but declined to land due to high winds, while other brave and skilled pilots in Taylorcrafts, Cubs, Huskys, and Cherokees completed the requirements to take home a trophy.

Some highlights noted by the judges: Leo Dyer, who is paralyzed from the waist down and uses a wheelchair on the ground, practically levitated his Cherokee skyward to 150 feet. He showed everyone that the skill makes the best pilots. Perry Virgin took advantage of the high winds to hold his Taylorcraft 600 feet over the runway practically motionless for half a minute. Steve Bernard showed that some Ultralight pilots can fly where some Skywagons fear to tread. Heinz Fischer of Vermont impressed all those who know what it is to be a pilot with his consummate skill in an Aviat Husky, and Tom Kiley landed his Cessna 170B both times with style. The winner and official holder for one year of the title of New England's "Best in the Bush" is Phil Zinek of Rumford. He made an average short field take-off distance of 88 feet, and an average short field landing distance of 295 feet. He flew a modified Cub with a 180 hp conversion with vortex generators. Pilots who want to win the title next year, in the 150-200 hp class, now have a target to shoot for. We are accepting suggestions and ideas to make this competition fun and successful. Please contact Bethel Air at 824-4321.

We would like to thank everyone that participated and the spectators, who were so patient as we waited for the winds to die down, and for our food vendor's unfortunate delay (he'd had trailer hitch problems). Our express gratitude for the contributions of Douglas Bennett and Sons for providing another two port-a-potties so soon after their generosity for last month's fly-in. We also thank Western Maine Supply for the donation of stakes with which we were able to keep the crowd a safe distance from the runway. We are very grateful to our judges, Harold Clukey and Terry Alexander, who braved the winds and cold along the runway and for their time during such precious weekends. The numerous trophies were generously sponsored by Rumford's Autotech, and many competitors walked away holding theirs high.

SCHOOL BUS SAFETY WEEK

To the Editor:

The week of Oct. 17-23 is National School Bus Safety Week. During this week we should say thanks to all of the men and women who work hard to make sure that our children are safe when they are going to and coming home from school.

I would like to take this time to personally thank my daughter's bus driver, Joanne Korhonen. She has the challenge of making stops on a very busy road and has always made sure that it is done with the utmost of care. I would also like to thank Burnie Rice. He should be commended for seeing to it that additional bus stop signs were added along Route 2. Both of these people have shown that they make a commitment to the safety of all of the children who ride school buses.

So while everyone is out on the road, please remember, not only during National School Bus Safety Week but each school day, to slow down during times when school buses are on the road. Show the bus drivers we care by saying "Thank you."

sulation around heating pipes, need to be removed and replaced, according to district officials.

This summer, the district was awarded $242,000 in asbestos abatement funds by the state Department of Education. Of that amount, $142,000 must be paid back over no more than a five-year period. There would be no interest charged.

Then, in August, SAD44 received a $57,442 check from a successful lawsuit filed by school systems across the U.S. against large asbestos companies. The district, said Supt. Kent Rosberg, has been "filling out forms for years" in connection with the suit.

School directors must now decide whether to use the $57,000 to reduce the district's share of the cost, or add it on top of the $142,000 to fund more asbestos work.

More work will be needed, said Rosberg. The original application for state funding was for $500,000, to cover removal of all asbestos.

The application for the rest of the funding will remain on file with the state, with approval expected at a later date.

But Andover director Sid Pew wondered if, with the rising cost of asbestos abatement, the district would be better off to ask voters for the full $142,000 and use the lawsuit money for additional work.

The board's Finance Committee will study the issue further and make a recommendation.

strategy," Otten said.

Oak Hill Capital Partners completed a $150 million investment in the company following the end (in late July) of ASC's past fiscal year. That investment gave the private investment group a 48.5 percent stake in ASC.

Skip King, spokesman for ASC, said that as a result of the Oak Hill investment, the skiing company "starts off the new fiscal year in a much better financial situation than last year."

ASC's resorts include Sunday

River and Sugarloaf/USA in Maine; Killington, Mount Snow and Sugarbush in Vermont; Attitash Bear Peak in New Hampshire; Steamboat in Colorado; The Canyons in Utah; and Heavenly in California and Nevada.

Maine's Bicycle Safety & Education Law

All persons under 16 must wear a helmet

Maine law requires that anyone under the age of 16 operating a bicycle, or riding in a bicycle seat or trailer must wear a properly fitting bicycle helmet. A bicycle helmet reduces the risk of head injury by as much as 85% if you are in a bicycle crash.

Always wear your helmet when biking.

Your helmet must be level, just above your eyebrows and be snug so when you shake your head it stays firmly in place. Do the "Eyes, Ears, Mouth Test" to make certain your helmet fits properly (see other side).

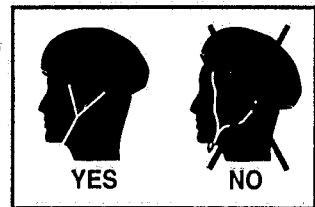

Safe, predictable bicycle operating is the best way to prevent crashing your bicycle. Remember your bicycle is a vehicle and you must obey all traffic laws. Follow these important rules whenever bicycling!

- Always Ride on the RIGHT
- Obey ALL Traffic Signs, Signals, & Laws
- LOOK and Signal Before Turning
- Ride in a Predictable Manner
- Yield to Pedestrians
- Keep Your Bike in Good Repair
- Always Wear Your Bike Helmet

Do the Eyes, Ears, Mouth Test™ everytime you wear your helmet!

Place the helmet on your head—it must be level and snug. If it slides around you need to insert additional pads.

- Eyes — looking up past your eyebrows, you should see the edge of the helmet
- Ears — the straps must meet right under your ear lobes to form a Y
- Mouth — when buckled, the strap must be loose enough so you can breathe and insert two fingers between it and your chin, but tight enough that when you drop your jaw you can feel the helmet pull down on the top of your head

Properly fitting and adjusting a helmet can take some time at first. Do the Eyes, Ears, Mouth Test™ each time you ride to ensure it is right. If you have problems, your local bike shop can help.

Man shot in Paris robbery

SOUTH PARS—A 17-year-old old boy was arrested on charges of attempted murder and armed robbery Tuesday after he allegedly shot a man during a holdup at the Corner Store on High Street. Two other teens, David Morrill, 18, and a 15-year-old, both from Paris, were also arrested as accomplices. Robert Vaughn, husband of the store owner, was shot in the abdomen during the noon robbery. He was in critical but stable condition at Stephens Memorial Hospital after surgery Tuesday night. Vaughn, 39, reportedly wrestled the gun from the boy outside the store after he had been shot, then collapsed on the ground. Police officers arrested the juveniles at gunpoint on nearby railroad tracks at about 1:30 p.m. Morrill was arrested later. The youths took $117 in the robbery. The money was recovered.

King donates $40,000 to rescue

STONEHAM—Author Stephen King has donated $40,000 to Stoneham Rescue, the unit credited with helping save his life after he was struck by a van last summer. SRS was the first on the scene when King was struck on Route 5 by a van driven by Bryan Smith of Fryeburg. King's donation will allow the rescue service to have a new ambulance delivered this month. SRS has been raising money for the new vehicle since last winter. Delivery of the ambulance had been scheduled for August, but was delayed due to lack of funds. The rescue service now has all but $20,000 of the $87,000 needed for the purchase. The rest will be taken from surplus.

Smith's license suspended

BANGOR—The Fryeburg man who struck author Stephen King with his van has had his driver's license suspended for six months. Bryan Smith, 42, surrendered his license in response to an order from Secretary of State Dan Gwadowsky. Gwadowsky made the decision after reviewing a report on adverse driving submitted by the Oxford County Sheriff's Department. Smith has had several driving offenses over the past 10 years. An Oxford County grand jury indicted him Sept. 30 on charges of aggravated assault and driving to endanger.

Moose harvest successful

AUGUSTA—Preliminary numbers from last week's moose season are in, and out of the 3,000 permits issued, 2,610 hunters were successful in their quest for a moose. Last season, there were 1,866 moose harvested with 4,000 permits issued. This year's success rate of 87 percent was down from last year's 93 percent. State wildlife biologists manned 15 of the 24 tagging stations throughout the state, gathering statistical and biological data on the moose. The information will be used in conjunction with public comment and feedback from a public working group representing hunters, non-consumptive users, landowners and others with an interest in moose management.

Senior citizen survey underway

AUGUSTA—Results are expected on a study bill of the needs of Maine senior citizens before the Maine Legislature reconvenes in January. A joint committee of government staffers, consumers and advocates has been assembling data on services and barriers to services for older people, broken down by geographic region and residential setting. A toll-free number will be open for the month of October at (877) 483-7851. Seniors and their caregivers are encouraged to call to take the five-minute survey and to express their concerns. All calls will be kept confidential.

More hunters opting for bows

AUGUSTA—In Maine, as in New Hampshire and Vermont, more archery licenses are being issued as sales of firearms licenses remain stagnant. In Vermont, the number of archery licenses more than doubled between 1989-98, from 17,118 to 34,339. During the same period, the number of New Hampshire resident bowhunting licenses increased from 13,249 to 19,478. The number of all Maine archery licenses rose between 1990 and last year from 9,612 to 11,635, a state game department spokesman said. Hunters say they are being drawn toward bows and arrows by a number of forces. There are fewer of them in the woods, which gives them a sense of solitude and virtually assures them of a spot they can have to themselves. "It is a safe sport, and he numbers prove it," said spokesman Mark Latt of the Maine Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife Department. There have been only two bowhunting accidents causing injuries recorded over the last 25 years, he noted.

From the Bethel Police Log:

2,000 golf balls melt away

At 9 a.m. on Oct. 11 a complainant reported that sometime in the past several months someone had removed more than 2,000 golf balls from his storage shed on the Songo Pond Road.

Thursday, Oct. 7

At 5:52 p.m. an off-duty officer heard Tri-Town Rescue dispatched to the Rowe Hill Road for a car/child traffic accident with serious injuries. The responding trooper was en route from Buckfield. The Bethel officer obtained information and secured the scene until the trooper arrived.

Friday, Oct. 8

At 6:47 p.m. police were dispatched to the scene of a serious personal injury accident on the Wild River Road in Gilead. On arrival the officer assisted Bethel Rescue with treatment of the injured parties.

At 10:20 p.m. police were dispatched to the Crescent Park School for two male subjects doing criminal mischief. The officer walked to the school after parking his cruiser. While approaching, he observed one of the male subjects attempting to pull a sign post out of the ground. He did not see the officer approach. The officer ordered him to stop and not to move. The subject then started running toward the back of the school. As the officer followed, he saw the second subject, who was also running. Both were stopped and detained. The officer was given consent to search one subject's backpack, which contained approximately eight full cans of beer. Some empty cans were also found in the area. Jeremy Cowin, 18, was given a summons for possession of alcohol by a minor. The other subject, a juvenile, was taken to his residence.

Saturday, Oct. 9

At 3:35 p.m. a subject was stopped for speeding 71 mph in a 50 mph zone on Route 26. A license check showed a suspended license in his home state. The subject, Dung Viet Bui, 27, of San Jose, Calif., was arrested and taken to the Oxford County Jail without incident. On arrival he was given a summons for the offenses.

Appeal

the subdivision ordinance) to grant the waiver is an obvious attempt to circumvent the private road ordinance," Cummings wrote in his appeal request.

"The Planning Board held up until they could get this through at the town vote, and then they jumped on it in a hurry," he told Appeals Board members at last Thursday's meeting.

Garry Faulkner, chairman of the Appeals Board, wanted to be sure he understood Cummings' point.

"The Planning Board, sitting in the bushes, is waiting for this waiver so they could pounce on this and give some special consideration to the developer. That's what I'm hearing," said Faulkner.

"That's what I'm hearing, too," said Frank Vogt, chairman of the Planning Board.

"What do you say to that?" Faulkner asked Vogt.

"Not true," replied Vogt. "I could elaborate on 'not true,' but why waste words?"

Discovered after the fact

Mary Rosberg elaborated on the circumstances leading to the board's approval of the waiver based on the subdivision change.

She said that when she and the planners left the Town Meeting, "we did not have any idea what this (subdivision) waiver was going to allow." Their focus, she said, had been on bringing a number of technical ordinance revisions before voters, and the subdivision proposal was only one of them.

The effect of denying the appeal 'would be to override (the Town Meeting) vote, and that's a pretty far-reaching decision.'

Several selectmen asked after the meeting what the developer, David North, would do, and Rosberg said she replied, "He'll just have to find another way."

"Another way" presented itself at the next Planning Board meeting, when Gary Inman, a surveyor representing North, picked up a packet from Rosberg with the newly approved ordinance changes.

"I got the packet with all the new additions and in a review of that - we have a waiver instead of a variance. So I wrote up the request for a waiver based on that, after the fact. I had no knowledge at all that was even in the packet," Inman said.

A majority of planners saw his request under the revised ordinance as legitimate, and it was granted.

Faulkner supported the planners' decision. "As distasteful as it might be, (the subdivision ordinance revision) was put before the people. That they did not understand it - we certainly can't hold the Planning Board responsible for that. Nor can we hold the developer hostage to it."

But Appeals member Kathy Hooke disagreed. The voters' overall intent should be considered, she said. "It was a pretty strong statement that said when it comes to private roads, for whatever reason, they didn't want the Planning Board to have it (waiver authority). I need to respect that statement from the town."

The effect of denying the appeal, she said, "would be to override that vote, and that's a pretty far-reaching decision."

The final vote was 3-1 to deny the appeal, with Hooke the lone dissenter.

The other members of the board are Dr. Lennie Shaw and Wendie Gray.

$200 million, with much of that amount targeted at projects in the northern and eastern parts of the state.

Part of those funds would also be allocated for improvements in rail lines.

But while King's plan included no plan for a four-lane cross-state highway in the near future, he did leave the door open for such a move, by calling for the acquisition of the necessary rights of way.

And he said the time to begin the planning for the east-west upgrade was now. "It's time to shift the discussion from 'What should we do?' to 'How should we go about doing it?'" he told the business group.

Highway opponents, both here and across the state, hope to exert a strong influence on that planning process. And they know they're in for a long campaign.

"It's a constantly evolving situation," said Conni St. Pierre of Bethel. "It's like a moving target because no one route has been chosen."

The state Legislature, which ordered the MDOT/SPO analysis, is expected to reopen the discussion of an east-west corridor when it reconvenes in January.

Updates on the highway plan - from the perspective of its opponents - can be found on the Web at: <http://www.east-westhighway.com>.

Speeders

In the course of 30 minutes last Thursday, Tripp wrote four speeding tickets on Vernon Street. "They were all more than 15 miles an hour over the speed limit (of 30 mph)," said Tripp.

What's going on? It may simply be that more people are noticing speeders and calling the police, he said.

But in what is the second year of SAD44 double bus runs, Tripp sees more potential for tragedy. Older students are out earlier than before waiting for the bus, he said. And, with the second run for elementary students, there are simply more hours in which children are standing beside the road.

Tripp is hoping the tickets will serve as a wake-up call to drivers. The most common explanation for speeding is, he said, "I'm late."

Maybe we can get them to think about it, and make a conscious effort to leave for work five minutes earlier," he said.

"We're going to be out there a lot. Enforcement is going to be increased in the village. I don't want to get called out to an accident where a kid got hurt waiting for a bus," he said. "A very simple rule would be to drive through another person's neighborhood as you would want others to drive through yours while your children are outside playing."

Fenton "Buster" and Ethel Robertson left for their return trip to Richmond, Calif., on Wednesday after spending eight days with his sister and husband, Helen and John Cummings. While in Maine, they visited with friends and relatives and attended the Alumni Luncheon at Gould Academy. Mary and Charles Keoskie of Brunswick visited for a short time with the family before attending the Alumni Banquet for her 60th reunion. Cherie Gagne and Ron Garrison of Brunswick visited with her parents, the Cummings, and to see her aunt and uncle, the Robertsons.

The Rev. Geraldine MacNeil was honored at a going-away party given by the Methodist churches of Gorham, N.H., and Bethel, which was held at the Bethel church. She has accepted a position elsewhere out of state and will be leaving soon.

Doris Peterson of Antigo, Wis., has returned home after visiting with her daughter and husband, the Reverends Jean and Brendon Bass. Kaitlin Bass and college friend, Linka, were weekend visitors of her parents.

Also visiting were Nancy's three sons and families: Peter and his wife and daughter of Londonderry, N.H.; Christopher and family of Gorham (Maine), and Adam and his wife of Salem, N.H. They all enjoyed the autumn colors of the season.

Douglas and Sandra Rice and their son and wife, Justin and Sue, of Guilford, Conn., were at their chalet at Sunday River on the weekend. They joined Mary Rice Keniston and husband Lefty for a birthday dinner party for Sandra, hosted by Donna Rice Howe and husband, Alton, in Waterford. Also present were Donald Rice, Sheldon and Jackie Rice and children, Jaidyn and Dalton and Arlene Howe all of Waterford, Emerson and Loretta Merrill of Bethel and son Rusty Merrill of Rangeley. Eleven hikers from the West Parish Congregational Church, organized by Howard Cole and Al and Jackie Cressy, climbed the backside of Mt. Madison in Randolph, N.H., on Saturday. Each took a lunch and ate beside the beautiful waterfalls. It was a lovely day and all enjoyed the view and gorgeous scenery. They welcome others in town to join them, especially families, on future hikes.

Raymond and Evelyn York of Fayetteville, N.C., have been visiting his mother, Edna York, and his family and friends during the month of September. He attended the Gould Academy Alumni Weekend events and his 50th reunion with the Class of 1949 at the annual banquet. He had a most enjoyable time. They returned home this week.

woodturnings was well received. Demonstrations on a small wood lathe also created much interest.

The right party got the message - what a wonderful new sidewalk on Chapman Street. Thanks so much.

Ranald Stevens, along with his crew, was the lucky one to get a moose. Visitors at the Stevens' were Mr. and Mrs. Orson Moody of Corinna and Mrs. Kathy Johnson and son Matthew of South Harpswell.

Andover

by Joan Stinson Carney

Not much happening in the great little town of Andover this week, or if there is, no one has told me about it. Readers, if you don't start sharing, I'm gonna make up some stuff, I swear.

Here is what little I've managed to glean - Andrea and Jerry Savitz had some company from New Jersey over the last few days. Glenn Reilly and Mark and Nancy Borchert were here to enjoy the colors and mountains, a sort of busman's holiday because they all work for the Monmouth County Parks Service. Glenn is the superintendent of the Parks, as a matter of fact. Jerry told me they loved it up here and hated to go back. Also visiting from New Jersey were Bill and Jean Manigold. Andrea said she feels like she's running a B & B, but they had a lot of fun anyway.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank White of East Hartford, Conn., called on his former teacher, Violet Swain, on Oct. 4. They came to the area to visit his sister, Emma W. Giroux, and to attend Fryeburg Fair.

Other visitors at the Stinson B & B this past week were Gwen Stinson from Seattle, Wash., and Lequita and Brook Stinson from North Carolina. Lequita and Brook finally got their wish - two moose captured on video, and a big black bear almost captured on the front of the car - close call that one.

Coming home from bingo Saturday evening we saw two moose, a deer and a fox. This place is worse than Nature Land. No, I didn't win - I donate.

Happy Birthday Vicky Meisner, - the big five-o hits again. I'll tell you who hung the huge sign in town if you'll pay me. Yup, there it is right in the middle of Andover, as big as life. You can't miss it.

Guess what? I can't win the Ugly Baby Contest. The picture is of my sister, Jeannie. Wait until she finds out I entered her by mistake. Oh well, into each life -

The following is a list that I have been threatening to put in my column since I started to write it. It really doesn't mean anything, it's just in fun - Becky Weston and Darlene, David White, Wally Patrick, Daniel White, Lori McPherson, Phyllis Spaulding, Peggy Madigan, Don Wardwell, Barbara Simmons, and Richard Pellitier. This is just the first of many, so be warned.

What do you have if you have six lawyers buried up to their heads in sand? Not enough sand.

Why did the three-year-old wear boots down stairs?

See ya.

Locke Mills

by Lorraine Larson

My, the colors are turning fast. Not that that is surprising seeing how fast the months go by, but this year the seasons have all been a bit strange and different. And no, I don't think it is because of the millennium. I may be wrong. I often am, but I expect things to go on pretty much the same as usual. I don't know as that is any comfort but there it is. Of course, the Bible says that people were very complacent just before the disastrous flood. Make of that what you will.

I was expecting some friends from Illinois to visit Oct. 20. Much to my surprise they phoned and said they'd be here Oct. 8th, as their cruise was canceled. I'm delighted that I'm going to see them, but regret we couldn't get some of the painting and papering done that we had planned. Oh well, that's life and the temporal things will be small potatoes in the scheme of things. And yes, I can spell potatoes. Not that it would matter much to me, but sometimes such things are the stuff careers are made or broken by. Just a warning to those young people who might not think spelling matters.

The Alliance Church brought their group, "Women of the Bible," to the Nazarene Church Sunday night. I fully enjoyed their portrayal. They all had a lot of lines to learn and they gave a polished performance. It must have been a lot of work, not only learning lines but making costumes and preparing the set. If you get a chance to see it, by all means do so. It will be worth it.

On Saturday, I accompanied Debbie Grant, Stephanie Grant and Debbie's mother, Katherine Evans, to Fairfield to attend "Ladies' Day Out." We had lunch at the Governor and I got to see a bit of Fairfield. Debbie lived around that area growing up so she was already familiar with it, but the last time I was in Fairfield was when I was in grade school and we went there for a basketball game. Anyhow, the speaker was very good and I learned among other things that among all the hazards of raising children these days ceiling fan lights rank fairly close to the top, as she told about young Supermen trying to use them as a means to fly and fledgling baseball players using them for batting practice. Yes, I did learn some spiritual things, but somehow it's the unusual things that stick. Hopefully some of the other did, too, as the occasion arises when it's needed. Anyhow, we all enjoyed ourselves.

For those of you who remember the Whitman kids who lived on Rumford Avenue years ago, Nancy Willard received a letter from Joan Whitman Bowles of Yreka, Calif., recently. Her son, Jer, has two sons ages 3 and 6, Orene lives nearby, Leona is in Texas, Stan is in Colorado and Louise is in the San Diego area. She said Joan remembers one of the last times she swam at the Lake Christopher public wharf in the '50s, she got a leech on her. Freddie Farnum took it off. There are very few leeches in the lake now, since the state has been putting in trout. Nancy hasn't seen one for several years.

Library news: On Saturday, Sept. 25, we had our first children's story hour. It included a story called "Come to the Fair." We had to listen, so we could answer questions for a prize. We made "silly animal" puppets and had blueberry muffins and Sunny Delight for a snack. Saturday, Oct. 30, at 10 a.m. will be our next one. Watch for details. We are also involved with traveling books. They come from other libraries. Come and see them. You may check them out. We continue to receive new children's books and new adult books have been ordered. Come and see. They are great books. Come and see me soon, your librarian, Rebecca Laites.

Franklin Grange 124 met on Monday, Oct. 4, with 15 members present. Agriculture night was observed. The program went as follows: opening thought, "Thank God for Farmers"; opening song, "Bringing in the Sheaves"; speaker for the evening was Richard Cole, he was comparing farming in Pennsylvania and Maine; song, "How Do You Keep Them Down on the Farm"; song, "By the Light of the Silvery Moon"; sing-along led by Richard Cole with his banjo; mystery march; closing thought, "Don't make fun of a farmer with food in your mouth" and closing song, "Now the Day is Over." The next meeting is a Halloween program. The date for the Grange flu shot clinic at West Paris has been changed to Oct. 27 at 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The historical society supplies information on the history of our area, Maine and New England. Its exhibits capture the essence of these places. A fine research library offers opportunities for self-improvement. Interesting programs stimulate our imaginations. Join the society and see for yourself. The society's credentials for actually writing history are now well established by the series of articles in the Lewiston Sun on Saturdays. Thanks to Kathleen Bean and Mary Billings. These ladies have worked hard getting these articles and pictures. Woodstock owes them and the Sun a debt for publishing its history. It has been highly informative and educational. Curator Larry Billings has a directory of most of the museums and historical societies in Maine listed in it, if someone needs to look one up for something special.

On Oct. 20 the Woodstock Extension will meet at the Town Annex for a workshop for the holiday open house, with Louisa Noyes as leader at 10:30 a.m. It will be a brown bag lunch.

The Newry Mothers Club met Monday night with only three members present. Beal Lowell was a guest, and she showed us the quilt squares she had made. Also present were Danny and James Lowell. There was discussion on a Bake Sale on Oct. 23 at the Bethel Foodliner in Bethel and a Halloween Party on Oct. 30 at the Newry Town Office. More on this at a later date.

The Mothers Club is in need of volunteers at the Halloween Party. Anyone interested, please call Patty at 824-2860.

Joe and Peg Perham recently spent a week at Nesowadnehunk Lake. They joined Milt and Eleanor Inman and Cynthia and Sayward Lamb.

The next meeting of Goodwill Fellowship will be on Monday, Oct. 25, for a potluck supper at the home of Marta Clements. Plans will be made for the annual chicken pie supper on Nov. 18, which is always held the Thursday before Thanksgiving.

Dale Penney of New Germany, Nova Scotia, recently visited with Vern and Miriam Inman. Bill and Ginny Aridas have returned to Farmingville, N.Y.

Our sympathies are extended to all the family and friends of Leone Penney upon her death. She will surely be missed.

On Friday night, Oct. 15, there will be a "Stone Soup" supper at Goodwill Hall of the Universalist Church at 5:30. Jim Burke will be in charge and a sing-a-long will follow. The supper sounds rather interesting.

Saturday, Oct. 16, the West Paris Grange will have their annual fall sale from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. There will be baked beans, homemade bread and rolls and probably (?) corn chowder, as well as sweet stuff. Crafts and white elephants will also be plentiful. If anyone wants to rent a table, they may call 674-3872.

The West Paris Historical Society will meet on Monday, Oct. 18, for a potluck supper at 6 p.m. The speaker will be Henry Morton of South Paris, who will talk about the old "sled factory," or former Paris Manufacturing Company. The public is welcome to come and bring a dish to share for supper.

There doesn't seem to be any other news. I've been at the Fryeburg Fair.

Joyce Lamb called to tell me that she is a great-grandmother. Joshua Harrison was born Oct. 7 and weighed 8 pounds, 1 ounce. The parents are Nina and Robert Hysong. Jude Lamb is the maternal grandmother.

A couple weeks ago, I left the Jane and Craig Ryerson wedding party high on a bluff overlooking Zion Canyon in Zion National Park. We got the entire party safely back down the trail to the parking lot, with a few comments about looking for the Roadrunner and Wile E. Coyote exiting the tunnel through the cliff. Then, as we drove through the high country toward the east entrance to Zion, we were surprised by a bighorn ram posing for a photo op. He was standing on the rocks just a short distance from the highway, and then he slowly trotted to a cliff just over the road, turned slowly and meandered along the solid sandstone toward some nearby peaks. We then exited Zion National Park and headed in the direction of the North Rim of the Grand Canyon, about 120 miles distant.

I must digress at this point to explain our experiences with gift shops. You've probably noticed how some women seem drawn to gift shops, and some even spend more time in the park gift shops than in viewing the natural wonders themselves. Duane and Perry's wives, Lisa and Anna, were prime examples, especially Anna. Now, we spent from Saturday morning to Monday morning in the Best Western Motel in St. George, Utah, which just happened to have a gift shop adjacent to the check-in/out counter. When we checked out and went to the cars on Monday morning, our departure was delayed an extra 15 minutes, or so, while Anna made some last-minute purchases in the motel gift shop. Of course, Duane just wanted to go to Wal-Mart, where Lisa gets an employee discount.

As we approached the Grand Canyon along a very long and gradual ascent (The North Rim is above 8,000 feet elevation), we joked about being away from gift shops for a while, this being a very large national forest we were in. We noted a road sign announcing a scenic viewpoint ahead and decided there was no danger of gift shop delays. So, we stopped in the small parking lot and walked up the short path to a gazebo-like observation point. Boy, did we get taken. That gazebo was full of Navajo Indian women selling Indian jewelry and crafts. It took a good half hour to get all four women headed back to the cars.

Grand Canyon at last! We decided to walk the short path to Bright Angel Point and view the magnificent ditch before letting anyone go into the park gift shop, so as to keep the group together. This path follows the crest of a very narrow knife-edge like wall of sandstone to the somewhat wider point, several thousand feet above the canyon floor. Everyone watched to see how Duane reacted to the rarefied atmosphere, but he kept to the high side of the trail with the ledges and rocks to lean on, and showed no outward sign of fear. No words that I know of can adequately portray the awesome splendor of Grand Canyon, so I won't try. Duane even said it was worth the scary walk to see the canyon "in the flesh."

After this walk, the gift shop was anticlimactic, but again it took probably 45 minutes to get everyone out of the shop. By this time, it was late afternoon, and we returned to St. George to be ready for Las Vegas the next day.

It was a fine Columbus Day weekend. We were blessed with good weather and blue skies. The leaves are still on the trees but change color daily. Monday, Oct. 4, we received our first snow. It measured two inches, according to Walt Stanczyk who keeps climatological records for the area. The storm was a surprise. We had become so complacent with the good late summer weather that we got faked out. Anyway, it was a good conversation topic. It was gone in a few hours because the roads are still warm. Let's face it, it was an omen of things to come. I think it instilled into us to get busy and finish those pre-winter chores, because there was a lot of hammer noises over the weekend.

The Umbagog Pontoon Boat Flo-tilla is fast disappearing from the lake and being put into dry-docks for the winter.

The Selectmen's meeting was held on Tuesday, Oct. 5. The new town garage is progressing well and should be complete in a week or so, if the weather holds out.

The School Committee met on Monday, Oct. 4. This is an open meeting and all interested parties may attend.

We don't have to worry about night visits from "Boris," the local bear. He is well ensconced partaking of our bumper crop of apples.

The hedges are filled with migrating birds. Robins continue to pass through in great numbers. The juncos arrived last week. The feeder is doing double time trying to keep up with all the birds.

Visitors from other states returned to "leaf peep" and prepare their camps for the long winter. They stay later each year. The Grafton Notch parking area was filled, overflowing into the Route 26 roadside. About four times a year there is an influx of people to enjoy the wonderful scenery and good mountain air.

Several moose were taken in Grafton during the moose hunt. Jim Kenny and his boys hunted north of here and were rewarded with a 700-pound bull on the last day of the hunt. Jim has a large extended family and the meat will be well used.

A Fall Health Festival was held in Erol on Wednesday. Cholesterol, glucose screening and flu shots were offered. The team of volunteers is to be commended for their service to the community. Flu shots will be offered in many towns. All are urged to take advantage of this public service.

One of our favorite birds is the slate-colored junco. They flock to the fields and feeders in the spring and fall. They have a soft chatter and startle to flight when disturbed. Sometimes they remind me of a group of little nuns with their dark gray habits and white trim. At this time of year there are many birds in the flock. The young males keep a touch of brown in their plumage until their third year. Mature birds have gray upper parts and breast, white belly and tail edges. You can't miss them, they are everywhere. The "Bird of the Week" is the slate-colored junco.

Hi readers. Stephen Barker was around selling popcorn for the Boy Scouts.

Joel Barker was also selling Boy Scout popcorn. Later, Matthew Nelson came with his popcorn order book, so if you need some popcorn this winter, you know where there is some. That used to be our schedule on Sunday night -- popcorn and fudge on a wintry evening watching TV, and this is a good brand.

Lois Niemi and Marion Paine recently visited Donna Niemi in Santa Fe, N.M. Donna has been appointed as social work supervisor for the State of New Mexico of Santa Fe County. While there, they took day trips to Espanola, Abiqui and Sangre de Cristo Mountain. They had a good trip, visit and good weather while there, but it's always good to get home.

Frances Grant saw a huge moose today. He crossed the road from Craig Adams' and over by her dining room window that faces up the road. Later, in early evening, Albert Nelson saw two big moose over on the Slab City Road. I guess they're roaming around now so watch out for them when out driving.

We went to Fryeburg Fair last Tuesday on Senior Citizen Day as usual and everybody was freezing. It was a cold day and hot coffee was selling well -- but I like the cooler weather myself. We did get over to see our neighbor Clyde Millett's steers. He certainly had some nice animals there and he won a lot of ribbons on them. It is a lot of work taking care of these big animals. They are nice and clean and well behaved.

Our sympathy and prayers are with the family of Frank Vail Jr. who died last Saturday. He has been a good friend and neighbor for many years. He will be missed by a lot of people.

Don't forget the Harvest Supper (boiled dinner) at the Stoneham Church on Oct. 14 at 5 to 6:30 p.m. This is the last supper of the season. There will be corned beef and cabbage and all those good veggies with coffee, punch and pies of all kinds. Sound good? It will be good.

Richard Grant from Oxford was over and cleaned chimneys for Frances Grant and Brenda Files on Tuesday.

Greenwood City

by Colista Morgan

As I write this, it's one of those days of wind, no sun, rain and cold. How uncomfortable it is -- if one is outside. I'm not, so I'm cozy and warm.

Before many weeks we will look at an unchangeable black and white scene, black outlines of trees and the endless outlines of snowdrifts against the cloudy sky. But in spite of it all, I like the change of seasons.

So many times I think of my first year of teaching, when each morning I left home at about 6:30 to walk the three miles to my school house here in Greenwood City. I started the fire in the wood-burning stove to have it warm when the children came. No bus then. I handled the three-foot length of wood for the stove, and it was warm at quarter of nine when our work began.

At 3:30 or 3:45 p.m., school was over, and I walked the three miles again after preparing for tomorrow.

I was living with my father at that time at the Tubbs District.

Some days, especially in winter, it was rugged.

I enjoyed the walk most of the time. Maybe that and the many other hikes over the years is what kept me going until now.

I had several visitors this last week, whom I enjoyed. I had not seen some of them for a long time. Dot Betts, now in New Hampshire, Rena Curtis, and my cousins, Laurel Shepherd from Leeds, Ernestine Gilbert of Gardiner, Mary Bamford of Auburn, and Gertrude Whitman of South Paris, who took me for a ride to places I hadn't been for a long time.

The Innans worked at Fryeburg Fair for a few days.

There were 18 geese seen together at the farm this week. I haven't seen any here. They seem to like the grass better than the water at this time. I think if they plan to eat they had better be on their way to find a warmer place.

The leaves are changing color.

A birthday party was held in honor of Ina Dunn on her 90th birthday.

The party was held at the Oxford Hills Comprehensive High School and was given by her daughter, Elizabeth Peaslee, other friends and relatives. Ina's grandsons took her by limousine to the party. She was accompanied by her companion of many years, Arne Jarvenpaa. Over 100 came to wish her their best. Ninety roses were sent to her from her son, Robert

Sunday River Valley

by Rockie Graham

Again, we have been blessed with sunny weather, except for a brief rainstorm on Sunday. Having company, we ignored it and went for a walk through the forest to Horseshoe Pond. After getting our feet soaking wet, we retired to Tut's for supper. The guys went back to spend the night at camp, and I came home and Tasha and I spent the night in the warm house.

It was sad to see the Benton Swan (a.k.a. Locke Mountain) house go up in flames. I am glad that Shelby was thirsty and awakened her parents. At least, only the house was lost, no lives. I hope they are able to rebuild and can remain here in the valley.

Traffic here has been heavy. It is not just the number of cars and buses, but the speed at which they move. Perhaps it is time for the Sheriff's Department to patrol the road. I have almost been run off the road daily by people in a rush to nowhere coming around the curve and suddenly realizing they are in the shoulder/bike lane and about to hit a walker. It happens all times of day. Traffic starts early, by 6:30 a.m. Yesterday, there was a bus that went back and forth and back and forth with few if any riders. Perhaps the driver was bored.

My garden is almost to bed. I have picked most of the pumpkins, but there are still two large jack-o-lantern pumpkins turning orange.

Dunn, who is in Alaska. Each guest was asked to take a rose when they left. People from several other states attended the celebration. Ina received many beautiful cards and flowers. Happy birthday Ina.

Last Sunday, Kellie Record, Jessie Hart and I traveled to South Portland and on to Biddeford to do some shopping and then to visit with Sarah Hart at her apartment. We did some shopping while there and got to see Zachary Lynch, Sarah's son who just turned 6 months old. He really was the main reason we made the trip.

I was sorry to hear that Judi Brown broke her leg. Hopefully she'll have a speedy recovery.

Several from this area attended the Fryeburg Fair. Several took animals to show. Others went just for the enjoyment of it.

The cold weather has sure made its mark. I was hoping it would forget for a little while longer. I don't think the leaves have been as bright this year but still are real pretty.

Larry Billings, curator of the Woodstock Historical Society, reports that Annella Burnham has donated the urn in front of the society to the museum. It has been filled with beautiful flowers all summer and the society hopes to use it every year. Much thanks Annella. The historical society is an important landmark in Woodstock.

As they are still very much alive, I hate to pick them. I am waiting for them to fully ripen. After that I will be done and will plant winter rye as a cover crop and see if it makes a dent in the weeds next year.

It is a busy week, in spite of myself, and Thursday, especially, I have to be in too many places. I need to focus in on just a few activities and realize that I can't do it all. That is my task for the week, to drop conflicting activities and put more energy into those that are left. So, till next week when I let you know if I succeeded.

They're really Gentle Giants, said Josh, reassuring me as he climbed into the stall with a 2,000-pound Belgian. This unassuming youngster roamed freely throughout the many draft horse barns and sheds at the Fryeburg Fair. I had observed him earlier as he and his grandfather chained down two hitch wagons. Josh's eyes lit up as he told of the cash amounts a good driver and team could earn at a competition -- $500, $700. Their teams had a number of blue and red ribbons cheerfully pinned to a purple banner high over the pungent stalls.

The whole family seemed involved -- his mother had 16 show horses, I'd seen grampa, and he told me during my horseshoe lesson that dad was a farrier. We rested at the barn door as Josh pointed up at some shoes nailed to the softly weathered door frame.

"Ever notice the shoes on those pullin' horses?" he asked, pointing to a big bay, which was being led into a neighboring barn. "They have shoes like this." He points at the cleats built up on the bottom of the suspended shoes. "That's so they can really dig in and pull."

He turns to the barn stalls and with a nod of his blond head, "These horses have special shoes, too." Proud and apple-cheeked, he explains that the horses look better to the judges when they pick their feet up high and how the farrier builds just enough weight onto the underside of the shoes to make the horses lift harder. "You wouldn't think it would work, but the horses pick their feet up higher and it looks like they're prancing."

I was obviously the outsider seeing the fair through the eyes of a boy who at first had told me he didn't know much about anything because he was just 11. I could see his calm around the equipment, the horses, and people.

As soon as we started walking away from the older men, Josh, who lives in Fryeburg, and his friend and shed mate, Luke, toured me around the horse stalls introducing, by name, the Percherons, Shires, and Belgians all resting in sweet-smelling shavings. He took me to see the only two Clydesdales (Budweiser horses) at the fair and explained that the Percherons were the most popular and how many people thought they were Appaloosas.

I learned about the wheel team which pulls the greatest amount of the weight, the swing team(s), horses trained to turn the wagons on a dime, and the lead team. The lead two horses are the lightest and snappiest steppers. All six or eight horses are trained in pairs to do separate jobs and one person holds them in place or drives them in figure eights around the arena.

The two young scouts were entertaining and at home around horses and the like. I observed their small hands demonstrating how a man laces the reins of an eight-horse hitch through his fingers and how the elbows should be positioned for safety.

They spoke of Dr. Eugene Hussey and their admiration swelled as the stories unfolded. I had asked them to share what they knew about horses and driving and after a short warming-up period, they became themselves and I felt a part of their world.

For a time I was swallowed up in the atmosphere and felt safe there with the two boys...and it was a good feeling.

Bethel Historical Society's Regional History Center

A wide variety of "What's Its?" were present at the October meeting of the Bethel Historical Society held Thursday evening in the society's Robinson House on Broad Street. No one could positively identify the use of most of the items, but there were lots of theories from many in the audience.

Following this portion of the meeting, Gail Butterfield of South Paris, who has just completed a term as national president of the Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, was present to describe the organization and discuss her year as head of this organization, which dates back to 1885. Mrs. Butterfield stated that the purpose of the Daughters is to perpetuate the memory of those who served to preserve the Union. Membership is open to all eight year old and older female descendants of Civil War veterans who were honorably discharged between 1861-1865. Local groups are called Tents and are named for army nurses or any loyal woman of the Civil War era whose patriotic deeds during the years 1861-1865 were recorded. States with three or more tents have a State Department. The organization keeps the memory of those who served alive by maintaining records and placing commemorative wreaths, plaques, and markers wherever appropriate. It supports veterans' homes and scholarships at the service academies and at several universities and colleges. Its national headquarters is in Springfield, Ill., where it also maintains a museum. Mrs. Butterfield described her adventures as she traveled about the country visiting the various departments and the national headquarters.

Prior to the program, newly elected president Alvin Barth, Jr. presided at the business meeting. He announced that the next meeting would be held on Nov. 4 in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House and feature a lecture

The "Artifact of the Month" was announced by the president as a record book of the meetings of the Saco-River Camp, Modern Woodman of America, ca. 1917 in Hiram, Maine, the gift of Glenn Skillin of Biddeford.

The president thanked all those who made the Apple-Pumpkin Festival such a success by making pies and helping in a number of ways.

Refreshments announced by Persis Post consisted of a number of apple and pumpkin treats along with fresh local cider.

From the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

Welcome to our newest member, Benvolent Bear Gift Shoppe, Christine Liberti, owner, who hopes to be open by Thanksgiving in her Philbrook Place, Main Street, Bethel location. Best wishes to her as she prepares for her new venture. Also, welcome to Sandy MacGregor, a licensed Maine Guide, who has also joined the chamber. Sandy builds mahogany canoes. Welcome, also, to Androscoggin Home Rentals, Scott and Carol Gould, owners, of Hanover.

Many thanks to the 61 businesses and friends of the chamber who supported the Country Christmas in Bethel brochure and horse-drawn wagon rides in Bethel Village each Saturday between Thanksgiving and Christmas. The support is very much appreciated. The beautiful brochures with details on all the community and business events planned is now printed and available -- please come in to pick up your supply.

All members and friends are encouraged to put Thursday, Oct. 28, from 5:30 - 8:30 p.m. on your calendars for the chamber's annual meeting and social. Many thanks to the Bethel Inn for hosting this important get-together once again. Refreshments will be available. This is the meeting where we vote in our new Board of Directors for the coming year, vote in proposed changes to the chamber's by-laws, review 1999 committee accomplishments and provide a time for input in to the chamber's future direction. Please plan on attending.

Many thanks to the Bethel Historical Society for hosting this month's Community Networking Breakfast on Wednesday, Oct. 13. All are invited to the upcoming Brown-Bag luncheon on Friday, Oct. 15, from noon to 1 p.m. at the Bethel Alliance Church. The topic for this month's discussion is "Employee Recruitment."

The chamber is planning for our attendance at the Boston Snow Sports Expo (formerly known as the Boston Ski Show,) from Nov. 18-21. We are seeking willing volunteers to staff our booth at the show, so please call the office if you are interested in helping.

Also, a hearty thanks to valuable volunteers Ruth Silver and Joann Best for their continued help with chamber mailings and to Sunday River Ski Resort for allowing us to have a booth this past weekend at the Blue Mountains Arts and Crafts Festival.

Oxford Pomona gained two members when they met at Franklin Grange in Bryant Pond on Oct. 5 and conferred the Pomona degree on those two, Helvi Cary of Bryant Pond and Marjorie Kimball of North Waterford. Applications were received for four more from the Pleasant Valley Grange in West Bethel. They were unable to take the degree at this time but will do so at a later date.

Thirty members were present and Franklin Grange retained the attendance banner for having the highest

This was the first meeting with the newly installed officers at the helm and it went quite well in spite of some being absent and others filling in for them. Pomona, Peggy

Russell Yates took over as master, which he has done many times before.

From the

Jackson-Silver Post

The next meeting of the Jackson-Silver American Legion Post and Auxiliary on Oct. 21 will honor those delegates who attended the Boys State and Girls State programs back in June.

There will be a 6 p.m. supper to which the delegates and their families are invited and reports will be expected from the young people as to what they learned during their week of training in government and citizenship. The department president of the Auxiliary, Dianne Gerish, and second district president, Ronda Fournier, will be present. Nora Thombs and Carolene Caldwell, director and assistant director of Girls State, are also invited.

In other business at their meeting on Oct. 7 the Unit finalized plans for the supper/dance on Oct. 14. There will be the usual 5:30 p.m. harvest supper with corned beef and pies for dessert. Dancing will follow until 9:30 p.m. to the music of the Richard Felt Band. This will be the final supper and dance of the season except for a benefit on Nov. 27 for Richard Cross.

There will be an afternoon card party on Oct. 17 to benefit Special Olympics. At 1 p.m. pie and beverages will be served and this is followed by playing cards or other table games until 4 p.m. All card players are invited with their friends and it gives them a chance to help Special Olympics with a $5 donation. All money received will go to this cause. Door prizes will be drawn.

Plans are underway for an ice cream social to be held at the Western Maine Veterans Home in South Paris on Oct. 24. Jeri Greenwell is in charge of this fun project.

GOULD ACADEMY STUDENTS Emily Drummond of Bethel and Liz Beebe of Portsmouth, N.H., right, welcome new friends from the Varga Katalin Ginnazium, a secondary school in Szolnok, Hungary, at a reception in Gould's Ordway Hall last week. Thirty-four students and four faculty chaperones from Szolnok spent the past week in the Bethel area, where they stayed in homes with host families and visited several Maine landmarks and attractions. Their itinerary included a cruise on Casco Bay, shopping in Portland's Old Port district, tours of Sunday River Ski Resort and P.H. Chadbourne Company, and a trip to the Fryeburg Fair. The visit was part of an exchange program with Gould Academy, which last year sent the entire Gould freshman class to Hungary for a similar cultural experience. (Photo by Betsy Paquette) more are on the agenda for the preschool group. To aid in the planning process, Peg Perham asks that parents register their children prior to the first story time.

The popular after-school story times and activities for children from kindergarten through sixth grade will also commence on Oct. 20. The first session of these bi-weekly programs will center around Halloween and will include stories, a craft project, games and more. Future programs will center around holidays, as they occur, with some programs featuring the Arthur stories by Marc Brown. Again, as a planning aid, children are asked to register for this after-school program.

Fall hours for the library remain unchanged, Mondays and Fridays from 1:30 to 5 p.m. and Wednesdays from 1:30 to 7 p.m. The adult reading group meets the first Monday of the month at 6:30 p.m. and Friends of the West Paris Library meet the second Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. New members are always welcome.

About the Business Person who Doesn't Advertise...

This person wakes up in the morning to the sound of an advertised alarm clock, climbs out of his advertised bed, and takes off his advertised pajamas. Then he takes a bath in an advertised tub, with advertised soap, shaves with an advertised razor, eats an advertised breakfast food, puts on his advertised clothes and drives to work in his advertised car. He then sits at an advertised desk and writes with an advertised pen. Yet this man doesn't advertise - saying that advertising does not pay.

Eventually, when his unadvertised business goes under, he will advertise it for sale!

THANK YOU FOR YOUR PATIENCE AND SUPPORT

During the past several months, you may have noticed inspectors and workers on our pipeline and right-of-way. We have been conducting a series of physical examinations and internal testing of our 18-inch pipeline, which runs some 236 miles between South Portland, Maine and Montreal, Quebec. The purpose of this testing was to verify the structural strength of the pipeline prior to its return to crude oil service.

The most recent tests that we conducted on the line are called hydrostatic tests. These tests involve filling sections of the line with water and increasing the pressure beyond the maximum operating pressure for crude oil service. The fresh water used during these tests contained an environmentally acceptable blue-colored dye — similar to food coloring — which helped our inspectors detect leaks during the hydrotest. We did locate three weak spots during the test, and these locations were repaired promptly. We are pleased to report that the pipeline has met or exceeded all of the internal and regulatory requirements and will resume crude oil service this October.

Portland Pipe Line Corporation is proud of our commitment to operating our systems safely and with as little impact on our neighbors and surrounding communities as possible. That is why we conduct tests and inspections far in excess of what is required by regulations. We at Portland Pipe Line are committed to being good neighbors, and we wanted you to know that we appreciate your patience and hospitality during our visits.

If you have any questions or would like additional information about Portland Pipe Line Corporation, please call the following contact person in your area:

A HEAD-ON COLLISION OF TWO LOCOMOTIVES of the Grand Trunk Railroad on Jan. 12, 1901 near Walker's Mills, Bethel, resulted in the death of three train personnel and lots of wreckage as shown in this scene taken soon after the accident. This photograph is one of thousands that can be found at the Bethel Historical Society, which also possesses an outstanding collection of manuscripts, books, documents, and artifacts relating to western Maine and northern New Hampshire. The society is currently raising funds for its Regional History Center on Broad Street and the 1821 O'Neil Robinson House, which now houses the museum shop, exhibit galleries, and offices. When this project is completed, improved storage space and greater access to collections as well as rooms devoted to educational activities, research, and traditional crafts will be provided. Once the center is fully operational it will offer an expanded series of lectures, special events, conferences, courses, seminars, and publications. To learn more about this project, call the society at 824-2908 or (800) 824-2910 or use the e-mail address history@bdc.bethel.me.us or visit the Web site http://orion.bdc.bethel.me.us/history.
